Close to the center of The Hague, this contemporary villa is a perfect example of "architecture meets art," yet designed to be comfortably lived in. The unique detached house is located in the quiet and leafy neighborhood of Benoordenhout.

The three-level house has a ground floor with three bedrooms, two bathrooms, a separate toilet, a large terrace, wine storage, and a utility room. The spiral staircase leads to an exceptionally bright living room with a glass facade, a dining room, a sliding wall to the fully equipped kitchen, and two terraces. A family room/study, a separate toilet, and a master bedroom with a dressing room and bathroom is tucked in the top floor.

Mosaic tiles in the bathrooms, nooks and interior support columns, many floor-to-ceiling windows, and built-in ceiling lights create an interior designed down to the last detail. The garden has a deck with a seating area and a circular ground floor terrace, all surrounded by greenery, creating a calming oasis.

This part of The Hague is one of the most beautiful districts in the city, full of significant villas. There are several peaceful parks within walking distance, including a Japanese Garden planted over 100 years ago. The city center is close-by.

Built-up area: 303 sq. m., plot: 510 sq. m.
