This simply gorgeous 18th century stone villa on the Saronic Island of Hydra is set in a peaceful area, ideally situated just a five-minute walk from the port. The unique villa boasts 630 sq. m. of dreamy living space, surrounded by gardens of 4,600 sq. m. with cypress and olive trees, which create a refreshing microclimate.

The main entrance hall of the house hosts an elegant piano and features a distinctive all-black marble floor. This room opens to the salon which includes a fireplace and French doors which open to allow views over the town and the port. The master suite is also located on this level with a private terrace which allows tranquil contemplation of the magnificent views. A spacious dressing area leads to the bathroom, which is a work of art in itself. An additional dressing room and a separate study complete the master suite. Also featured on the main level of the house are a formal dining room, a library and a traditional fully equipped kitchen. The ground level offers two further bedrooms with bathrooms, plus an enormous "great room" which is perfect for family activities and relaxation. The ground level opens onto a patio with views of the garden and the port as well as to the swimming pool area with daybeds, and a barbeque area - all offering splendid views.

Another area of the garden contains two independent studio buildings with guest bedrooms and bathrooms. An old church that blends nicely into the surrounding trees and a studio for staff members complete the property. Fantastic opportunity to live in a most picturesque setting in a gorgeous, traditional house.
