Surrounded by a landscaped garden, this historic villa stands in Caxias, Lisbon. Called Vivenda Castro, it was designed by the architect Manuel Joaquin Norte Junior, who also built several palaces and hotels in Lisbon.

The property is entered through a gate and a paved driveway leads to the villa's front steps. In the foyer, lined with historic Portuguese ceramic tiles, is a wooden staircase with colorful glass windows that will take you to the upper floors. Villa Vivenda Castro has five bedrooms and four bathrooms, a loft, two balconies, and a basement. Split into two wings on the upper floors, this design allows for a room with two rows of windows, creating a pleasant sun room.

Residents will enjoy such features as the villa's name etched onto the pillars of the entrance gate, the stone balustrade on the ground floor terrace, and its unique decorative tiles, stonework, and polished wooden floors. The grounds with a manicured lawn with trees and bushes is large enough to fit an outdoor pool in the future.

Enjoy Caxias's beaches and relaxed atmosphere from this noble villa with plenty of space for the whole family.

Useable area: 456 sq. m., plot: 1,505 sq. m. The property is being sold by the Porta da Fresta real estate agency.
